

Science is a subset of all human knowledge which in turn is a subset of "what is". The boundaries will forever be expanded but we will never "know" everything.

